Dear NTSA,

I object to adding C-V2X communications on several grounds. First, the public should not be paying for this expensive addition, unless each vehicle owner voluntarily accepts the fees. I do not.

Also there needs to be a way for the vehicle owner to easily turn off off any system. The last thing we need is more Big Brother or driving distractions.

The best way to improve safety is to disable texting from a moving vehicle, and enforce lane discipline, not add more layers of gadgets and bureaucracy.

Regards.
