

Comment from Anonymous

The only acceptable connected communications in cars is one that can easily be turned off or removed by the car's owner.

We don't need another distraction from safe driving.