

Comment from Michael Volansky

Most world mega policies are already over-saturated with wide range of microwave radiating devices. Density of cars will create another unprecedented level. Cumulative level will become an apparent danger to all biological species.

Instead, if you target promoting road safety, consider using ultrasound spectrum which would be way less offensive and intrusive compared to Wi-Fi.