

Comment from Tim Clark

GM has been dragging its feet since they were notified by the air bag manufacturer that the bags in my 2011 GMC Sierra 2500 HD were defective. I live in a high heat area of Southern California and excessive heat is one of the issues that adversely affect these air bags and yet GM still won't fix the problem. Of course GM says the truck is safe to drive just like Ford said there was no problem with the gas tanks in the Pintos
